for Bicentennial, citizens urged Dress for the part

With little more than three weeks before the Belle Glade Bicentennial celebration, final details were being hammered out this week and local residents were urged to dress for the part as well as support the activities with donations.

The Belle Glade Bicentennial Committee agreed Monday that local citizens be urged to dress for the day-long festival on Memorial Day, May 31, in red-white-and-blue clothing or in the fashions either of Colonial America or early Glades.

Belle Glade's own observance, will begin at 2 p.m. on Memorial Day with a parade, which will lead to ceremonies beside the municipal library in McDonald Park and then proceed to a barbeque at the city marina pavilion.

The Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club has prepared a 32-page souvenir book which includes a history of the area from the Calusa Indians to the present and a program of events of the day.

Club President Gina Farley headed the club's efforts in selling advertising for the book and the juniors will be selling programs on Memorial Day, with the proceeds going to help pay for the addition of a museum room to the library and a statue outside.

The narrative history was compiled and written in a collaborative effort by Belle Glade Librarian Leslie Strickland and Mrs. Sandy Boots. Illustrations for the book were received from Lawrence E. Will, for whom the museum is being named, and the Agricultural Research and Education Center.

The dedication of the museum will be one of the major events at the ceremonies, due to take place at 4 p.m. The cornerstone will be laid by the Grand Masonic Lodge of Florida.

The other major part of the ceremony will be the unveiling of a seven-foot bronze statue commemorating the victims of the 1928 hurricane.

The statue was executed by Ferenc Varga of Delray Beach. Varga is a Hungarian sculptor with a worldwide reputation. The base of the statue was donated by Belle Glade contractor Bert Roemer and is already in place. The base features a bas-relief showing the effects of the hurricane.

Mrs. Lynette Thompson is organizing the parade which will lead up to the ceremonies. Mrs. Thompson said Tuesday she is still accepting entries in the parade and urged any club or organization wishing to get involved to call her at 996-6205 or the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Thompson said there is no fee to enter units in the parade and floats may be sponsored by business for other groups or for themselves.

She said there would be a fee for floats entering the parade to help pay for float decorations, and there will be cash prizes for the winning entries.

Mrs. Thompson said the first prize for the floats will be $150 being sponsored by Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida; second prize will be

City to buy land

The Belle Glade City Commission officially agreed Monday night to spend $100,000 to buy ten acres of land for recreation in the Lake Shore area while taking final steps which would allow the erection of another 30 homes in the northeast section of town.

The Lake Shore recreation area decision was urged by Mayor William Gear because he said the city may only have 40 days before a decision will have to be made on the construction of a new recreational center to build on the land.

The commissioners at first considered directing City Finance Director Frank Anderson to take the down payment for the property out of Renewal and Replacement funds included in the city's water and sewer budget, which would be paid back into the funds at a later date.

The commission decided, however, to let the city administration come up with a proposal for the financing.

In the housing action, the commission approved the final plat number three for Sugarland Heights Subdivision, offered for commission action by Dr. Howard Hill.

But the commissioners decided that in the future, developers will have to come all the way to the city for water.

The commission unanimously approved a motion by Commissioner Aubrey Farmer to change the city ordinance requiring the city to install water lines up to 300 feet from the development towards the nearest city water connection.

Under the amended ordinance, both developers and private citizens may now be required to pay the full cost of extending city water lines all the way to their property line. The same applies to sewer lines.

The commissioners also decided to pay backpay to city diver Johnny Rutledge rather than assume even partial responsibility for a dental bill incurred off the job.

Mayor Gear said he felt the city should pay half the $190 cost of replacing a denture Rutledge lost while diving for the South Florida Conservancy District.

Gear said the district had agreed to pay for half the dental bill and he felt the city should pay the other half because Rutledge had made a number of dives in Glades canals for the city for which he had never been paid.

Commissioner Aubrey Farmer, who is also a diver for the Conservancy District, agreed with Gear, pointing out that

A touch of class

Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth "just wanted to touch it" when the 1928 hurricane memorial statue was delivered to the Belle Glade Library Wednesday morning to be put on the pedestal installed by Bert

Roemer...and she wasn't by herself. Also relieved to have the statue delivered were Ferenc Varga, the sculptor, and Mrs. Edwina Young, chairman of the committee assigned to get the statue for the city

Gear blasts city manager

Belle Glade Mayor William Gear said Monday night he has been having trouble reaching city employees on weekends who were supposed to be on standby duty and angrily suggested to the other commissioners that City Manager George Knoblock stay in town on Saturdays and Sundays.

The mayor, obviously piqued, said the latest incident came up this past

Saturday when a sewer line was overflowing and he couldn't reach anyone on a list of standby employees furnished him by Knoblock.

"Now, I'm doing someone else's work," Gear said, saying the same thing has happened several times in the past, "and I'm getting tired of it. I think the city manager should stay in town on a while."

Commissioner Aubrey Farmer agreed, telling

Lake Shore High reunion planned

Members of Lake Shore High School classes from 1950 through 1965 are being sought to attend a class reunion being planned for the latter part of this year.

Members of the Central Planning Committee said the members need not be graduates of any of the classes. All former Bobcats who attended school during that time are urged to contact the committee members representing their classes or write the committee.

The central committee may be reached by writing Reunion of Classes, P.O. Box 133, Belle Glade 33430.

Further details can be supplied by the class representatives. They are Henry Miller, Mary (Stroman) Danson and Lonnie Bolden for 1960; Mary (Lawson) Foster and Louise (Smith) Gilliard for 1961; Betty (Ford) Lawson, Harma (Mims) Miller and Paul Peterson for 1962; Willard Taylor and James Spencer for 1963; Dorothy Laing for 1964 and Isaac Jones for 1965.

Goodlett honored

Belle Glade Mayor William Gear congratulated Police Chief Charles Goodlett as he unveils a plaque which dedicates the city's new police station addition to the veteran chief. Goodlett said he is serving his 29th year as member of the department and 28th as chief.

Grady and friends rejoin Republican Party

Saying he hadn't changed any of his political views, Dr. John Grady gave up his leadership of the American Party in Florida Tuesday and rejoined the Republican Party in his quest for the U.S. Senate seat now occupied by Lawton Chiles.

The family physician who has served three terms as mayor of Belle Glade County, said he was joined by Palm Beach County Republican Party officials and friends at the Glades Office Building as he and his wife, Carol, switched their party affiliation.

Also making the switch to fight were Grady's political secretary, Ruthann Vass, and her husband, Nick Vass, Belle Glade police officer. Grady's political change were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bailey (Bailey is a former Glades Republican Club President and three-term mayor), present Belle Glade Mayor William Gear, other Glades Republicans and two county party officials.

Representing Palm Beach County Republican Party Executive Committee Charles Holt were Mrs. Cheryl Harris, chairman of the President's Council, and Ethelind Farr, secretary of the county committee.

Grady said that, while he hasn't changed at all, "I've been encouraged over the past year by the move of Republican leadership around the nation back to a stronger conservative approach."

"When both Ford and Reagan are speaking along constitutional lines," he said, "I believe this shows the Party is returning to the principles on which it was founded."

"I think the goals and objectives of the American and Republican Parties are mutually desirable and attainable," Grady said.

Grady originally joined the Republican Party when he defected from the ranks of the Democratic Party shortly following the 1972 Democratic National Convention in Miami. He left the Republican Party to join the American Party in 1974, accepting the American Party's invitation to represent the Party in the race for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Richard Stone.

Grady has "often been called the spoiler in that 1974 race, siphoning off enough conservative votes from Jack Eckerd to allow Stone to win but Grady has consistently disputed that viewpoint."

Grady outstayed after the election that the people who voted for him were mostly conservative Democrats who would have stayed home rather than make a choice between the Democratic and Republican candidates.

Grady said Tuesday he believes the fact he has left the American Party "may mean the American Party can become stronger. He said he feels it is not incumbent on the American Party Leaders in Florida to do whatever they feel they should do."

On the other hand, Grady said he feels he is a catalyst between the two parties and the conservative coalition the two parties antagonized

Sunday in Miami. Each party has pledged support in races within the state in which only a member of the other party is opposing at Democrat.

Grady said the American Party was close to attaining the 10,000 signatures required on the petition required to get the party on the ballot in November and that had nothing to do with his decision to rejoin the Republican Party.

"The decision was based solely on campaign practicalities and because the Republican Party has gone far to its ideals," he said.

Tractor operator killed in accident

A Pahokee tractor operator was crushed to death Wednesday morning when the tractor he was unloading on SR80 about a quarter mile east of Lake Road rolled over on him.

Dead at the scene was Richard E. Weeks, 37, of 295 Curious Dr. in Pahokee, according to Belle Glade Patrolman Clarence Means.

Means said Arthur Lank, 28, also of Pahokee, told him he and Weeks were in the process of unloading the bulldozer on the side of SR80 and he noticed, and informed Weeks, the lowboy trailer was canted at an angle.

He said Weeks started to back the tractor off and after it had traveled about ten inches, the tractor slid sideways off the trailer and turned over on top of Weeks. The canopy top of the tractor prevented Weeks from jumping off and when the tractor rolled over, was crumpled.

Means said there will be no autopsy and Wetherington Funeral Home in "Palatka" will handle the arrangements.

SHERRY THROOP, RACHEL McELHENNY, GINGER MASINGILL AND Suzy Wallis team up to put the word across on the Bicentennial Hoedown

Jr. Women's Club to host dance

The Belle Glade Junior Women's Club will host a dance, a "Bicentennial Hoedown" at 9 p.m. May 29 at the Belle Glade Elks Lodge on Southeast Avenue E. The band "Night Life" will provide a variety of popular music for the dance. Donations are $15 per couple and door prizes will be given. Dress is casual.

The purpose of the dance is to raise money for the club's service projects, such as mental retardation, a scholarship fund, community improvement, the special olympics and the association for retarded citizens.

The dance committee chairman is Mrs. Suzy Wallis. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Junior Women's Club. Table reservations may be made through Mrs. Shari Lohman at 996-6483 or 996-5325.

$100 being sponsored by Royal's Inc. and third prize will be $75 donated by Glades Mercantile.

The main speaker at the ceremony will be the Rev. Dr. Jess C. Moody of First Baptist Church in West Palm Beach. Dr. John Grady, former mayor and commissioner of Belle Glade, will be the master of ceremonies.

The barbecue following the ceremony will be held at the Aubrey Farmer Pavilion and is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Tickets for the barbecue are now on sale at area banks and the chamber office.

Mrs. Jewel Crane, executive secretary of the chamber, said the tickets cost $3 for adults and $2 for children. The chamber decided some time ago to lower the cost from the usual $4 and make up the difference by not giving out complimentary tickets.

The dinner will feature chicken, half for adults and quarter for children, with all the trimmings.

The Bicentennial Committee is still asking local residents for donations to cover the cost of the museum and the statues. Financial Chairman Ruth Wedgworth said she is attempting to get a larger number of small donations and they can be mailed to her at P.O. Box 26 in Belle Glade.

One easy way to make a donation is to buy a ticket for the major door prize at the barbecue on Memorial Day. The prize is an original oil painting by Belle Glade artist Ann Tyler. The painting is a landscape Mrs. Tyler said is representative of the Glades and depicts a stand of palm trees and a slough in the foreground with sawgrass and more trees in the background.

Mrs. Tyler is a lifelong Glades resident and began painting as a child. She has been a professional painter for years, specializing in portraits, among others, the portraits of Mrs. James Ball hanging in the city library and the portrait of Mrs. Dora McWhorter at Glades Day School.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Hiring The Handicapped Corporations, like people, can be good neighbors. And they can show their concern in many different ways. One is by hiring the handicapped.

Especially aware of how much private business is doing for the handicapped is a non-profit organization called Contemporary Guidance Services, Inc., of New York City. It trains physically disadvantaged young adults in skills that can lead to good jobs. It also keeps watch on who is extending a helping hand. City refuses to bite Rutledge has dived on numerous occasions at city request for outside interests who paid a fee to the city.

Commissioners Ralph Kirk and Tom Altman argued that Rutledge should have been paid for all those times, since the commission agreed some time back to pay city divers for eight hours whenever they make a dive, whether the dive is for five minutes or five hours.

the city should have no responsibility and shouldn't pay for any medical or dental bills incurred.

Grear maintained that Rutledge had made a number of dives, however, for which the city had never paid him.

The commissioners agreed the Rutledge and City Finance Director Frank Anderson should present a statement for all the dives. But, they said, the dive isn't being made for the city, Rutledge had made without pay at the next regular city commission.

Another personnel question came up when members of the Belle Glade Fire Department formally asked the city to recognize what would be the city's first employee union as sole representative for the five department employees.

At the suggestion of City Attorney Baker, the commission delayed any action on recognition of the union for two weeks in order to allow Baker time to study the options.

In other action, the commission:

Also decided to give Baker time to study another problem. The commission had earlier agreed to do away with the city jail and turn the responsibility for any needed detention facility over to the county.

According to a letter from Palm Beach County Commission Bill Medlen, however, the county has decided to forego the honor. Medlen cited two opinions by Florida Attorney General Robert Shavin that while the cities are required by the amended state constitution to give up city courts, they are still responsible for police protection and housing prisoners.

Baker told the commission he isn't even sure city's should go on handing out jail terms as punishment for violators of municipal ordinances. He said a better course of action might be fines or even civil-type suits for damages.

Mayor William Grear and Commissioner Kenneth Harris apparently agreed with Commissioner Tom Altman, when he argued the ordinance would be counterproductive to home professions since many professions wouldn't require the parking spaces.

The three voted against the measure, which was supported by Commissioners Aubrey Farmer and Ralph Kirk.

Agreed to hire Hutcheon Engineers to do the engineering work on repairing the Belle Glade Municipal Swimming Pool. The commission decided to send the plans back to Cone to see how he would incorporate the suggested pool, which hasn't been operating for three years now, will require approximately $35,000 to repair.

Pot Likker

by R-D Santee

I spoke with a man the other day that had some very radical views in juvenile crime.

He was employed as a sardine can key welder. That is he soldered the little keys to the bottoms of sardine cans.

This made him eminently qualified to speak on the subject of juvenile delinquency since so many of his keys were being removed from the cans in the stores by mischievous youngsters.

He began.

"I always watch a certain television station in the late hours of the night solely to get angry.

Generally, around 11:30 p.m., this station will run a spot in which the announcer says 'It's 11:30, parents, do you know where your children are?'

Now what business is it of his? I often wonder if he knows where his children are at that hour.

It seems that, more and more, there are more people worried about your child than you are. If you choose to allow your offspring to frequent a pool hall in the waning hours, then that is your concern and no one else's.

I recall another public service spot that deals with a group of young men stealing a car and joy-riding. The announcer implored you "Don't help a good boy go wrong. Take you keys out of your car."

Now, if the boy was good, he wouldn't have absconded with your car in the first place. If he were bad, he would have taken it. But if he's a bad apple, he needs to be caught doing something and punished. Why not leave your keys in your car? You'd be doing your bit to rid the community of undesirables.

There are too many people trying to tell you how to bring up your child. And, chances are, their children are at least four times as bad as any of yours.

A fellow I spoke to once had an interesting solution to the juvenile delinquency problem. Why not make the parents pay or serve the time for a crime their children commits? He says he thinks folks would keep a closer rein on their youngsters if such a situation were in force.

The outflow of today can get caught and examined for his psychological stability and the blame will be placed on environment or some other equally ridiculous circumstance that all reflects on the parents.

I find it hard to comprehend that a young man went wrong because his father couldn't afford a Tootsie Roll when the youngster was two years old.

Of course, it's all in attitude. If the old man is a bad apple, the chances are good his son will be also. But with proper rearing on the part of the parents, these instances of lawlessness would be much lessened.

"How many children do you have?" I asked.

"None," he answered. "I believe in zero population. If there ain't no kids there ain't no juvenile delinquents."

Chief Charlie

We were as pleased as anyone Monday night when the Belle Glade City Commission unveiled the plaque dedicating the new police station addition to veteran Chief Charles Goodlett.

As the plaque states, Chief Goodlett has given the city long years of dedicated and relentless service. He has been dedicated in his service and relentless in protecting the community.

And during an era when police officers around the country have been accused with improper behaviour and downright corruption, no one has ever seriously charged Goodlett or his department with anything but integrity and service.

This city has been fortunate indeed to have the services of a man like Chief Goodlett for as many years as it has and it's fitting that now, with his retirement not that far away, that he be recognized in a public and permanent manner.

Congratulations, chief.

Efficiency counts too

When a fancy proposal for a new city hall was turned down by the Belle Glade City Commission two years ago, the Belle Glade Herald was credited with being one of the main factors.

That isn't quite true. The Herald did conduct a poll which came up with the results most people didn't want to build that particular city hall because it cost too much.

The Herald was the medium but the people spoke and the commissioners listened. That is to the commissioners' credit.

One of the main reasons the proposed building was so expensive, however, was that it was too fancy. The people simply couldn't see paying that kind of price for a monument to the powers-that-be.

Another aspect to consider is the reason the city hall was proposed in the first place. The whole idea is to get overcrowded city departments under the same roof, making everything more efficient and convenient for the employees and the public.

Whatever design the hall takes, it should be functional. But that doesn't seem to be the prevailing attitude.

When City Manager George Knoblock and City Finance Director Frank Anderson saw the design submitted by Belle Glade architect Chester Cose and submitted their own ideas about what the perfect functional city hall would be, they came up with a building designed in a box shape.

The immediate reaction was that the city commissioners don't want "another box-shaped building". All well and good but one function should be weighed heavily in any decision on the final design and if a box is the most functional shape, it should be given full consideration.

Mayor Greer said he had been assured that Cose could incorporate all that function into his basic original plan of a central city hall with two long wings.

If he can, that's great. The design does look attractive. But if he can't is there really anything wrong with a box that renders good service?

Despite what one commissioner said, there is something wrong when a city employee is forced to walk further than the length of a football field to get to another office in the same building. He might as well walk down a sidewalk and take advantage of the sunshine.

We understand that architecture is one compromise after another but before we sacrifice too much efficiency and convenience for the sake of a beautiful monument, let's remember how functional and how beautiful the Volkswagen, one of the most successful automobiles on the market, is.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

A good ole boy up the road, who used to have the biggest passel of mangy mutts around his house that I ever did see used to tell me he never would kick out an old stray...even when he knew he couldn't afford to keep him.

It wasn't that he had all that much compassion, "It's just that I like to have something around that's in a little worse shape than I'm in."

Which I guess is why I'm sorta glad to have the acquaintance of a couple of particular people I know of but who shall, as they say, remain nameless.

I really didn't laugh when I heard their tales of woe because I'm ornery, it was glue at finding company during the trials and tribulations of the past couple of weeks.

Take Independent Ida, for example. I don't ain't her name of course. I ain't protecting her but if I used her real name, I'd need protection. Come to think of it, howsoever, she'll know who she is even if I were to call her the Great Spangled Bird so I'll probably still need protection.)

Anyway, you take Ida. One guy tried one night last week but there's always the chance he didn't approach it right.

Ida's a peculiar type of a person anyhow. I mean, not every sweet young thing with a dewy disposition would traipse on down to one of the local gin mills to play bumper pool while the lady she came in with left with a friendly gent.

But whipping the pants off the local bar flies (in a figurative sense of course) at bumper pool is what turns on some members of the fairer sex in these parts. And don't look for mercy, either. Ida's not the type to let you win just to build up a sagging supply of masculine pride.

You pays your quarter and you takes your chances.

So what happens when a sore loser in a Nazi helmet and a striped down leather jacket offered to ride our ladyfriend home on his chopper and she finds herself in a cane field with a time-hoarded proposal staring in her face?

Well, Ida said she took a walk; and walked, and walked and walked before she finally found a phone booth. And when she got to the booth, would she call one of her emancipated friends? Not so's you'd notice it. She got on the wire and complained bitterly into the ear of a male friend until he, as most compassionate men would do, sallied forth to lend succour to the damsel in distress.

Which is sort of weird when you think about it. I mean, chivalry ain't at the top of the women libbers' list of priorities on what is needed in this sore old world.

And just to show how cussed some women can be, Ida offers the information gratis that the guy on the motorcycle, when he saw which way the wind was blowing, offered her a ride back home anyway and she turned him down.

But then on the other hand, knowing her, I was sorta surprised she didn't reach over and fetch him a little love tap up aside his head and knock him and his wheels into the nearest drainage ditch; or just him and then take his bike.

Course there's a lot of people (and I was one of them) who would've told Ida they didn't feel a lick sorry for her, that she'd been begging for trouble from the time she started sinful occupations like playing pool.

But that wasn't the case with friend Joe (also known by his real name which I've already said I wasn't gonna tell you). Got the word Joe's troubles started when he was driving to West Palm Beach and the radiator in his car (notice I wasn't playing pool or riding motorcycles, much less hanging around a gin mill) started making sounds like it might be a tad over hot.

Figuring he'd get his car a cool drink Joe pulled over at 20 Mile Bend to fetch a pail of water. Actually, he found an empty milk jug and eased down the bank of the Hillsboro Canal.

The first thing he noticed when his head came back above the water was his dog in the car making the sounds dogs do when their master disappears into a canal with a big splash. Poor feller thought he'd been abandoned. Either that or he wanted to go swimming too.

The second thing he noticed was that he couldn't climb back out of the water, mainly because his foot was caught underwater in a root.

The third item that came to his attention was the absolute scarcity of people around who could see him or hear him...which was probably just as well considering what they'd have probably heard.

"At any rate, he was finally able to hold his breath long enough to go underwater and free his foot. That's about the time he discovered the bank was too steep and slick to climb back up.

So, as he said, "after I'd panicked for about 20 minutes, I figured I could die there," and swam downstream until he reached a tree with some handy roots.

Never did hear if he got the water for his radiator but it probably didn't matter anyway since his car engine blew up on him the next night.

But if Ida and Joe think they're really into hard times, they can rest assured, they've got one friend. There ain't no way I'd give up someone I can feel sorry for.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jeffrey Threlkeld

Miss Smith, Mr. Threlkeld recite marriage vows

Miss Jennilee Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barnes Goodman Smith, Jr. became the bride of James Jeffrey Threlkeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tower Threlkeld, both of Belle Glade, at St. John the Apostle Episcopal Church on May 1.

The Rev. J. Robert Politt performed the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Joseph Hughes, organist, played a program of musical music. Edward D. McGee sang "The Wedding Prayer" by Fern G. Dunlap.

The altar was decorated with arrangements on each side of the crucifix of white snapdragons, fuji mums, pink carnations and leather-leaf fern. A pair of tree style candelabra were behind the altar rail and garlanded with smilax. White satin bows and trailing smilax marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of sugarcane knit jersey with a chapel train. The bodice featured an English net yoke with Venice lace, lace-capped sleeves, and a rose velvet bow tucked between the yoke and sleeves. The Empire A-line skirt was trimmed with Venice embroidery. Her veil was two layers, finger tip length with Venice lace around the bottom layer.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white stephanotis, stock petals, pink miniature carnations, white orchids, white satin wrapped curls, rope pea, a white satin pirot ribbon bow and streamers.

Miss Rebecca Smith served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Herbert Geise, sister of the groom, Cynthia Smith, sister of the bride, and Beth Bussey of West Palm Beach. They wore identical floor length rose gowns and carried a cascade of pink satin curls and small leaves. They wore sprays of baby breath and pink satin wrapped curls tied with pink satin ribbon trimmed in burgundy in their hair.

The bridegroom was attended by his father, James T. Threlkeld, as best man, John Hildreth of Troy, Ala., Billy Brannen, of Nashville, Tenn., Herbert Geise, and Jerry Vulgamore were ushers and wore gray tuxedos.

The bride's mother wore a pastel green knit floor length gown with a matching jacket, a white orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink floor length gown of crepe polyester knit with beaded pearls on the neckline and jacket. She also wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Thomas Bregger, the bride's godmother, wore an aqua brocade dress and a pink miniature carnation corsage.

Mrs. Dan Griffin presided over the guest book. A reception was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony. The bride's aunts, Mrs. W. W. Weeks and Mrs. W. H. Prather, greeted the guests in the foyer. Arrangements of pink snapdragons, carnations, pom-pom mums and fern highlighted the entrance hall table.

The bride's table was laid with a white organza cloth over a rose colored underlay. Matching line arrangements were on the table in large four-branch silver candelabra with pink snapdragons, kilian daisies, gege carnations, mums and fern. String smilax draped from the candelabra to the center of the table and around the cake. The white three tiered wedding cake was decorated with rose colored flowers at the base and lily of the valley around the edges of each layer.

Between each layer were cherubs and on top were two doves lighted on white entwined wedding rings.

In the family room a buffet table of food was served and a silver punch bowl was set on a round table covered with a pink cloth and surrounded by smilax.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Bernard Painter, Mrs. Richard Shoemaker, Mrs. Charles Burkett, Mrs. S. K. Smith Jr., Mrs. R. Y. Creech Jr., Mrs. Wayne Baughman, Misses, Nancy Creech, Linda Parson, and Kathleen Threlkeld, sister of the bridegroom.

For traveling the bride wore an aqua print dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following a trip to Sea Island, Ga. they will return to Belle Glade and reside at 317 S.E. 3rd St.

Out of town guests included Miss Margarita Bastanzuri, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bussey, Bill Bussey, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lakeland Alcoholism Unit offers hope

by Terry Frost

NOTE: This series of articles describes one road to hope for alcoholics.

PART TWO OF THREE: THE STAFF. THEY PUSH HONESTY AND FAITH
Jo Nell Block has the kind of fresh feminine beauty that could put cosmetic companies in bankruptcy. Big, innocent brown eyes, relaxed, easy smile, even white teeth, pink cheeks and lips, and a few freckles. Jo Nell, petite and 25 years old, dries out drinks for a living.

A registered nurse and dedicated head nurse at the Lakeland General Hospital Alcoholism Unit in Lakeland, Florida, Jo Nell would probably frown and say "drying out drinks" is a shallow oversimplification of her job, and she would be right.

Just back from a three-day seminar in Orlando on care and counseling for alcoholics, Jo Nell was serious and sensitive in discussing the delicate balance between an alcoholic's dry life and the beckoning bottle. "When patients come to the unit, they're full of guilt, self-denial, and they're frightened. The main thing we need to give them is tender loving care. Giving our time is itself medicine to an alcoholic. Something we try to do here is get by with minimal sedation. We administer a lot of Gattaca and honey to replace certain needed substances lost through the poor eating habits or the nausea and diarrhea cycle of many alcoholics."

Jo Nell is only one of a complement of nurses and counselors that make up a close-knit staff headed by Dr. Fred Bennett, a clinical psychologist and Director of the Lakeland General Hospital Alcoholism Unit.

The unit, still in its infancy, started last July as the first 28-day program in a general hospital in Florida. The spirit of the comradeship and high morale is demonstrated by the unit's scrap book, kept at the nurses' station. Its first entry is a post card from a Southeastern U.S. resort. Under the post card, a nurse has written, "From our very first patient, who went on a dry vacation after leaving here." The post card's message expresses affection and appreciation to the unit and fellow patients.

The morale and unity of purpose is carefully nurtured by psychologist-director Bennett. A calm-voiced man who encourages leadership in his staff and tries to stimulate independence and confidence in the unit's patients, Bennett has worked with alcoholics for about 10 years.

He emphasizes unit of philosophy. "Another program might work as well as we all believed in it as strongly and our efforts were unified," he explained. One basic theme at the Alcoholism Unit is a discussion of the principles of Alcoholics Anonymous (A.A.), a group of recovering alcoholics dedicated to helping themselves and other alcoholics, based largely on the strength of group moral support.

On a recent Monday morning, an A.A. member and recovered alcoholic who is one of the unit's counselors was describing his own spiritual faith in a lecture to a group of patients.

The counselor's name is Dave Lombard and he comes on strong. "People who have trouble following our program are usually men and women who are constitutionally incapable of being honest with themselves. Their chances are less than average." It's easy to imagine Lombard as a Marine, which he is. He is not tall, but is vigorously masculine, even to the cleft in his chin.

"If you can't practice this honesty, you are afraid to be known; you can know neither yourself or others. You are alone. The person who benefits from this is going to be the person who wants what we sober alcoholics have and is willing to go to any lengths to get it."

Lombard was a participating alcoholic for 14 years before he went dry with the help of A.A. Then he became fairly well-to-do in the field on construction and the president of his union. He left his business to go into full time alcoholism counseling.

"I felt I could help some guys like myself. You know the macho image, the tough guy, the working man. I was really trying to satisfy my own need, a deep need I felt to give back in the way help was given to me."

Then he echoed a main theme he had just finished pounding home to the patients: "An alcoholic must have a basic change within himself. There can be society without change, but if there is I'll show you one miserably unhappy sober person."

To change, Lombard says, an outside personal influence—for him, a spiritual influence—is necessary. "Whatever type of higher power you must be religious in the orthodox sense of the term. Maybe it just means plugging in again to your conscience."

"This doesn't come in 30 seconds," he explained. "It doesn't come in 30 days. It comes from working, from hurting, from being determined to reach this feeling of conscious contact with a higher power."

According to Lombard, such spiritual understanding is successful only when "you swallow your pride enough to admit that someone or something bigger than you, can do a better job than you can by being in the driver's seat of your life."

"People who have trouble with this spiritual step have trouble NOT because of their understanding of God, but because their ego gets in the way."

Lectures such as Lombard gave that morning are part of the daily program at the Lakeland General Alcoholism Unit. Other topics covered include the defining and recognizing of alcoholism, the psychology of living, and Alcoholics Anonymous principles.

Patients, who pay the regular $55-a-day hospital daily rate, plus lab, x-ray, and physician fees, also are required to do a certain amount of reading and participate in group and individual counseling. They have some free time and are allowed weekly outings and with their families after a week or 10 days.

The unit's staff includes Bennett, Lombard and two other counselors, and Jo Nell Block and her nursing staff.

Grady appoints Ruckel

Belle Glade physician John Grady announced last week he has appointed C. Walter Ruckel, Jr., an Okaloosa County Banker, as treasurer of the Grady campaign for the U.S. Senate office now held by Lawton Chiles.

Ruckel is chairman of the board of the Valparaiso Bank and Trust Company and president of Ruckel Properties, a realty company.

A. R. Grigsby, South Bay city administrator, has been named deputy state treasurer and business manager for the campaign.

"Walt bring additional respect, talent and strength to our campaign team," Grady said. "He is an outstanding Floridian and American. I am pleased that he is willing to take this key position."

The former Belle Glade mayor and commissioner is running an independent campaign for the U.S. Senate seat Chiles now occupies. He said other members of his campaign team will be named next week.

Rub-a-dub-dub it's a scrubber!

Gold Coast Gardner

by Gene Joyner
Urban Horticulturist
Palm Beach County

This time of year there is a rapid buildup of fleas and almost anyone who has a dog or cat is troubled by these pests at one time or another. Fleas are very small, usually only about 1/16 of an inch, and are dark reddish brown, wingless and feed on the blood of their host. Probably the most distinguishing feature they have is that their bodies are flattened and this permits easy movement through the hairs of the host's body.

Fleas are also widely known for their jumping abilities and can jump great distances. Certain fleas, in addition to their feeding, can also transmit diseases. Other types of parasites may also be transmitted by fleas.

The female flea lays her eggs loosely in the hair or feathers of the host. These fall off into the ground, floors, bedding or furniture. The white, worm-like larvae avoid light and at first feed on particles of dead animal and vegetable matter present in cracks and crevices. After going through a larval development the flea larvae spin tiny cocoons and go into a resting stage called a pupa.

After a "winter" of several weeks the pupa immediately begins to search for a blood meal and preferred host. It is not unusual for a flea to be difficult to find. Adults can live for long periods without feeding but in order to reproduce they must feed on blood.

Animals are very easily infested through their normal activities and many times fleas will become established in the home and are at times difficult to control. Most of the time they will hide in furniture and carpeting and when people are attacked usually it is in the ankles and lower portions of the legs.

To most people a scrubber is one who scrapes the yellow wax off the floors, or someone who cleans the ring out of the dirty bathtub. A scrubber can even be that oversized red brush that cleans the dirt from your car.

But to the Florida Sugar Cane League and its member growers and processors, a scrubber is an essential aspect of environmental quality control; for a scrubber is a device that drastically reduces particulate emission (smoke) to meet clean air standards.

To the novice, a scrubber is a large tank-type structure with a tilted fan (spiral) near the top inside, and water on the bottom (sump area).

To further describe a scrubber and how it works, let's first go inside a sugar mill. To operate any plant, power is needed and most of it comes from burning bagasse, the fibrous sugar cane by-product that is in ready supply. This bagasse, is also useful, as when it burns, it is low in producing sulphur dioxide (SO₂).

Now, bagasse is burned in the boilers and provides vital power for the sugar mills and also saves greatly on normal electrical consumption. Any smoke, emission, from this bagasse burning in the boilers is ducted into the scrubber, or in some cases scrubbers - as one sugar mill has a boiler so large that it feeds emissions into three scrubbers.

Inside the scrubber itself in this chamber the particulates quickly pass through a water spray. The water spray, the particulates to be trapped in the liquid and drained away.

From here, the nearly pure steam emission rises through the stacks (remember they used to be called "smoke" stacks) billowing into white clouds that have replaced the belching black smoke clouds.

Emissions into the air are then monitored by stack testing equipment operated by the Florida Sugar Cane League's environmental staff. These test results are then used to evaluate the efficiency of the equipment and operation, and to make certain the emissions are in compliance with the Department of Environmental Regulation's (DER) standards.

These scrubbers not only give us cleaner air but also act as a barometer indicating when the boilers are working correctly.

The principle changes in the program to be recommended to Commissioner of Agriculture Doyle Conner involve a) the identification of cattle exposed to brucellosis moving in trade with a S-brand on the left jaw, b) the removal of modified certified or certified free status from herds or areas where excessive infection is found or where cattle have failed to comply with program standards, and c) lowering the age of calves vaccinated against brucellosis to between two and eight months for beef breeds and two to six months for dairy breeds.

The changes also provide for testing herds of cattle having direct contact with infected herds and follow-up supervision of problem herds.

There was a good deal of controversy over the role of livestock market operators in getting the S-brand applied to exposed cattle. They fear the expense will be more than their commissions on cattle sales will allow to have profitable operations.

Livestock market operators had tried in February to avoid S-branding by moving cattle from markets to slaughterhouses or quarantined feed lots in sealed vans. However, the U.S. Department would not accept that at present.

Dr. Paul Becton, Director of the National Brucellosis Eradication Program, said the proposal will be presented

Brucellosis regulations changes approved

GAINEVILLE—After wrangling for several hours over proposed changes in Florida's brucellosis regulations, the Animal Industry Technical Council bit the bullet and approved the changes effective August 1.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has said repeated times that time has run out for Florida to come into compliance or face a quarantine of all cattle. This action was threatened against Texas in January, and Texas came into compliance.

For approval at a meeting of the U.S. Animal Health Association in Miami in November. He said, "We feel we must support the market stand at least partially and will try to get approval for movement in sealed vehicles from market to slaughter. Until that happens, they will still have to be S-branded," he said. J. Ernest Webb, staff attorney for the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, said that the impact statement issued in February may not be completely accurate but, in his opinion, it was not defective.

The council finally voted to accept the rules with a provision that the impact statement be revised.

Dr. Becton said that he would prefer the changes be effective prior to August 1, but he realized Conner needed time to study the proposal and further time was needed to get the changes explained to the various factors involved and accepted.

He seemed happy with the action, as was Dr. E. G. Ongert, the assistant regional director for the Southeast.

The changes were required to bring Florida into compliance with the National Brucellosis Eradication Program. However, adoption of the new rules will preclude any punitive action by USDA against the Florida cattle industry.

The council also directed state veterinarian Dr. Clarence L. Campbell to make a feasibility study of using livestock inspectors to make brucellosis blood tests at livestock markets.

Tax Cents

by David L. Reid

(Q) If I am a senior citizen on a "fixed" income and higher property taxes will cause me to lose my home, do I have an alternative?

(A) The property appraiser's office is very much aware of the situation faced by senior citizens on fixed or limited incomes. Present state law does not allow the property appraiser to consider anything except the value of the property.

A legislative bill has been introduced by state representative Tom Lewis in the House of Representatives, house bill 3487 and a companion bill in the Senate, senate bill 110. Johnson, senate bill No.

1012, which would help persons in this situation. The basic concept of the bill is to freeze valuations on property at the level of assessment on the year the freeze is filed for. A person would have to be 65 years of age and a five year resident of the State of Florida before they could file for this freeze. If appraisals went up after the valuation has been frozen the taxes against the extra valuation or increased valuation would become a deferred lien against the property until such time as the property was sold or went into the estate of the person filing for the freeze. The thought behind this bill is the fact that people on fixed and limited incomes who are senior citizens need a place to call their own and where they can live in dignity without becoming wards of the county or state. There is not without of the taxes, but simply a deferral of the taxes.

I have thought about proposed legislation of this type for several years and did draft the original copy of the bill which was then introduced by representative Lewis and Senator Johnson. Letters of support from you the voters, to our legislators will further insure that this measure will become a law of the State of Florida.

Well, we have finally got the ball rolling softball that is. And it looks as if it's going to be a big one, even larger than I expected.

The girls are going to be occupied this summer, with the Glades Lassie League, a slow-pitch softball organization for girls ages 9-13 headed by Yours Truly.

We have had two meetings already. Our first one took place over a couple of weeks ago and we had 22 upcoming players. At our next meeting last week we had over twice as many as before—apparently word-of-mouth gets around.

I was surprised and excited at the number of interested girls. I couldn't believe it when I arrived at the field a few minutes before the scheduled time and saw a bunch of figures swarming over the field. I almost turned around in fright.

But it's going to be great. Thanks to a few organizations such as South Bay Growers, Quaker Oats, Sugar Cane Growers, Everglades Farm Equipment and a special thank you to Findlay Pate and the Glades Youth Association, we have turned a roughly sketched dream into reality.

As of this writing, four or five teams will have been formed and our first practice will be underway. With us luck, we'll need it. Most of the girls have never played softball before—certainly not on an organized team and it will be a challenge. But with the excitement and ambition those girls showed at the meetings, it's going to be fun.

Already, quite a few people have volunteered to help us in any way we need it and I sure do appreciate it—we'll need all the help we can get. After all, we can't hope to be as organized as the boys' league, they've been around for quite awhile and have experienced the problems we will most likely run into.

If there are anyone of you who would like to help, let me know!

I missed writing about it last week because of lack of space, but I definitely want to get in a word for the Glades Day School girls' softball team.

The Gators, who wrapped up the District Championship a few weeks ago by outlasting Moore Haven 24-21 and putting in a fine defensive performance against King's Academy five to one (only two errors were made in the game), lost a heart-breaker to Tampa Berkley when the Bucs broke loose for 15 runs in the fifth inning of play to win 24-18.

Glades Day gave it all they had, but it just wasn't enough with all the errors committed. But the team deserves high praise for making it all the way to regional competition in its first year of high school play. The Glades ought to be proud of them.

Once again, Congratulations with a capital "C".

The champs.....

Members of the Belle Glade Elementary School community schools little league basketball team won the double-elimination tournament held last week at Lake Shore Junior High School gym. The Belle Glade team, is coached by James Spencer. It wasn't until the third game was played against Lake Shore Elementary, with a final score of 13-12, that the championship was decided.

Limit catches are reported

Fishing in the Belle Glade area improved during the past week with reports of limit catches of bass, bluegills and specks coming in according to Nan Corbin of Slim's Fish Camp.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Corbin reported Sheriff's Deputies Donnie Lindsey and George Peck, both of West Palm Beach, brought in 12 bass up to six pounds in weight on green plastic worms and 60 bluegills on beetle spins.

George Peck, Jim Kersey and Jimmy Greer of West Palm Beach, returned on Thursday and reported in with 18 bass and 50 bluegills, using plastic worms for the bass and beetle spins for the bluegills.

David Goodlett and Richard Gill, both of Belle Glade, reported 40 bluegills using beetle spins on Wednesday.

George Peck and Jim Kersey returned again to the Glades on Friday and came back to the fish camp with 13 bass and 40 bluegills.

Local teenagers Danny Gressinger and Richard Burnes brought in 60 bluegills on Friday and 21 on Saturday morning using beetle spins.

Van Short of Fort Lauderdale reported his limit of specks taken on live bait on Sunday night. Keith Agnew and Richard Burns of Belle Glade reported 60 specks on Sunday and Frank Blocker and Lee Arden of Fort Lauderdale limited out on specks on Saturday and Sunday using jigs.

Glades Central girls going to state meet

Seven members of the Glades Central High School girls track team will be competing against girls from all over Florida Saturday at the state track meet.

Coach Jay Seider said the girls have a clear shot at bringing back two first place trophies with a chance at a third after coming in third place last Saturday in the regional meet.

The Glades Central girls picked off two first place trophies Saturday in amassing a total of 49 points. Dillard High School won 123 points to win first place and second place was won by Bradenton High with 56 points.

"We should have come in second," Seider said. "We could have come up with 61 points but one of the girls was disqualified for running out of her lane and another knocked over one of the hurdles on the 110 yard low hurdles race and that threw her off her stride."

Kathleen Ford won both the Glades Central first place awards, one on the shotput with a heave of 38 feet, 4 1/2 inches, and the discus, on a throw of 102 feet, 11 inches. Glenda Dixon was fifth best on the discus and Rosa Wilkerson was sixth best.

Seider said Miss Dixon missed qualifying for the state meet by six inches.

In other events Glades Central qualified for the state, by coming in among the first four competitors, were the 100 yard dash, with Patricia Jones coming in second while Linda Baldwin came in sixth, and the 880 relay team, which placed third while setting a new school record of 1:48.6.

Sugar

The reported offer by Gulf and Wester to buy Dominican sugar at higher than market prices boosted the futures market price tone this week. Although the offer involves only 200,000 tons compared to the recent Philippine deal which totals about 1,150,000 tons, the announcement may be enough to turn the world price around and start it moving up again. The Dominican Republic is expected to produce about 1,500,000 tons of sugar this year; so far, 900,000 tons have been stored with space problems becoming more critical. The 300,000 ton sale, scheduled between May and October, should tend to alleviate the Dominican storage crisis. We continue favoring long July positions bought 14.40-14.50 and recommend maintaining stops below 13.57.

Orange Juice

With roughly two million boxes less of Valencia fruit remaining to be processed this season than there were last year at this time, the industry can now project the season end carryover of inventory on the basis of weekly movement (sales) for the remaining thirty one weeks of this season. An average weekly movement figure of 3,673,000 gallons would result in a carryover roughly equal to last year's 46.5 million gallons. Last season the industry averaged 3,469,000 per week for the last thirty one weeks. Unless the industry moves considerably more product than it did last year it will carry a substantial inventory into what now appears to be an excellent production season to come while the above statistical inventory into what now appears to be an excellent production season to come while the above statistical projection appears to be long term bearish, current factors argue against further declines in the near term futures contracts. Field prices have not weakened, and the "basis" delivered in fruit to nearby futures is at its seasonal lows, that is, futures already are too low in relation to fruit prices. Also, it must be remembered that many unknowns remain. Until the October USDA estimate, the size of next season's crop is uncertain, and weather factors may come into play during the year to come - drought, hurricane and freeze.

Soybean Complex

Most of the old crop statistical news relating to the soybean market remains bearish. Nevertheless, the psychology in trade and speculative quarters seems to be of neutrality or of cautious bullishness. This attracts buyers on reactions but profit taking on rallies as demand if far from aggressive and the occasional flare-ups in price seem to come from short covering or charge buying rather than any sustained demand. Although the recently announced export sales to the USSR involved corn and wheat, the news may have restrained sellers in the soybean complex who might otherwise have taken their cue from the USDA forecast for a soybean carryover of 290 million bushels at the end of the current season, up from 185 million the previous year. In addition, the statistics call for a prospective huge increase in the soybean oil carryover from 561 million lbs. to 1,135 million lbs. and an expected increase in meal stocks from 358,000 tons to 490,000. The oil surplus seems to present the most glaring weakness in the soybean complex. Aside from competition with Brazil, the market must now contend with a resumption of large scale Argentine exports. Although these are expected to compete more directly with groundnut, sun oil and cottonseed oil they will, nevertheless, add to a depressing vegetable oil supply picture. The sole argument for price stability, or price strength, in soybeans revolves around the 9.6% reduction in new crop planted acreage which may produce a crop below this year's estimated production of 1.428 billion bushels. We still favor a long position in November soybeans as previously suggested, with stops at 4.874.

Meat Market

Without a sharp break in prices the uptrend in hogs and cattle will probably continue with the market most likely to break above recent highs rather than falter. The buildup in live cattle open interest should give momentum to the price move whereas live hogs do not offer the same technical assistance. Chart price action may be enough to cause an open interest increase if we close above 52.20 basis July. Based upon recent USDA production figures total beef production week ended 5/1/76 was 609 million lbs., down 1% from a week earlier and 3% below last year's levels. Reduced cattle slaughter and a return to lower marketing weights continues lending support to futures to futures. Hog slaughter, though up 5% from the prior week is still 3% below last year and market numbers should trend lower. We doubt whether the recommended price levels in last week's letter will be reached to initiate long positions in the meat market. That being the case we would buy July hogs 52.20 stop close only and August cattle 48.55 stop close only. In the event price reactions should occur buy August cattle 43.50-44.50 and July hogs 46.00-47.00 if offered. Protective stops should be 150-175 points below point of initiation.

FARM FRONT

by Doyle Conner, Columnist

The celebration of our nation's 200th birthday is now less than two months away and all of us might give pause to remember the contributions that the American farmer has made to the betterment of this country. More than 185 years ago, Daniel Webster declared that the farmers were the founders of human civilization. I would go one step further and say that the farmers are also the "maintainers" of human civilization. Not only have American farmers been responsible for meeting the nutritional needs of this country's people, but agricultural exports have also made it possible for the United States to once again enjoy a favorable balance of trade.

Some time ago, I approached Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butte, White House with the idea of inviting Ministers of Agriculture from several foreign countries to America during 1976. Their presence here would enable them to

John Boy receives ag. award at U. of Fla. banquet

GAINESVILLE (SPE.)—John R. Boy, president of the U.S. Sugar Corp., received Florida's distinguished agricultural award at the University of Florida during 1976. Their presence here would enable them to witness and learn agricultural techniques which help to make this country the leading food-producing country in the world. It is indeed unfortunate that the idea wasn't actively pursued because it's difficult for me to think of a better way for Americans to celebrate the Bicentennial than by the positive action of sharing our knowledge of high-yield food production with other nations who are so in need of that knowledge. There are many ways which we can celebrate the Bicentennial and I hope that Americans endeavor to get more involved. I shudder about what I read and hear concerning demonstrations and riots planned for July 4 in Washington, D.C. I can only hope that the majority of good American people view our nation's 200th birthday as a time to thank the Creator for what we've got and to peacefully pledge to make this even better for the future.

Expansion plans aired by Royals

Royal's Inc. will expand its chain of ten retail stores over the next few months addition of a shopping plaza in LaBelle and another of its full-line department stores in Fort Myers as well as a new shopping center in Immokalee.

The Belle Glade-based, family owned, operation recently announced Benning Construction Co. of Atlanta, Ga. has received the contract to build the La Belle center and the Fort Myers store will be located in the former W.T. Grant store in the Fort Myers shopping center on Palm Beach Blvd.

The LaBelle expansion was formerly announced by Charles and Larry Royal. It will be located on the south side of SR80, between Missouri and Lee Streets west of the Shell bulk plant.

Work on the plaza is to get underway this week.

The initial plaza is to have five 6,000 square foot "local stores" in addition to the 16,000 square foot Royal's LaBelle and another of its full-line department stores in Fort Myers as well as a new shopping center in Immokalee.

The Fort Myers store is scheduled to open July 8 with Kendall Williams, former assistant manager at the company's Glades Plaza store, taking on the job of manager.

The store will be typical of the Royal operation, featuring a complete line of clothing, shoes, fabrics, draperies and linens. The store will also carry about 35 per cent hard lines such as cookware and small appliances.

Charles Royal announced last week bids will be opened in the near future for a new shopping center in Immokalee which will include a Winn Dixie super market and a name pharmacy in addition to the Royal's store.

ARMED FORCES DAY "The fate of unborn millions will now depend, under God, on the courage and conduct of this army. Our cruel and unrelenting enemy leaves us only the choice of a brave resistance, or the most abject submission. We have, therefore, to resolve to conquer or die..." George Washington July, 1776

Maintaining a strong and ready defense to safeguard our way of life is not a new idea, but one as essential today as in 1776.

The brave men who served under Washington were honored among the American people as the protectors of freedom. Let us demonstrate the same honor for these members of the Armed Forces who stand ready to defend us today at home and abroad.

SUPPORT AMERICA!

Our precious heritage embodied in the flag of the United States, is at stake today as it was then when the men who fought for its independence in 1776. Social Chatter

By Maude Vereen

On Thursday, April 22, the day we all waited for, was the crowning of Miss Mt. Zion. The contestants for this occasion were Mrs. M. G. Poole, Mrs. Minnie Sistrunk and Miss Freddie Howard. Most people thought the odds were against Mrs. Poole for they said, "Youth has what it takes." But she showed them. Mrs. Shirley Morris really lived things up as the program center around the contestants and she made each to model to the congregation could see them better. Then when it became Mrs. Poole's turn, Shirley introduced her as "Old Mrs. Poole" but when the total came, Mrs. Poole didn't look nor act old, but marched like a champ where she was joined by Mr. Mt. Zion who is none other than Mr. Harvey Poole. The couple is the second to reign as Mr. and Mrs. Mt. Zion. The first one was Mr. and Mrs. Allen Salton (Irene).

Mrs. Leola B. Brooke of Delray Beach was the guest speaker for Women's Day and her topic was "Christ is the Answer." Mrs. Brooke lived here for several years when she taught school at the Lake Shore Elementary School. She quoted many of her former students and Miss Shirley Robinson flew home just to be in the service.

Mrs. Louise and Cartheda Taylor flew home to be with their mother, Mrs. W. C. Taylor on her Women's Day.

Adrian Vereen, a member of the K-Mart family, began his career in Daytona Beach, while he was a student at Daytona Beach Community College. Upon completion of his college education, K-Mart offered him a job in the Orlando Store. He worked there until a new store was opened in Ocala, where he worked as assistant manager of the auto department. Adrian was offered a transfer to Atlanta, Ga. but due to family illness did not accept the offer. He was transferred back to the Orlando store to train other workers and later went to several towns to help set up new stores. During his stay in Orlando, he has won many awards and letters of praise for his work.

In March, Adrian was transferred to Phenix City, Ala. to serve as manager of a new K-Mart store there. The grand opening day was held April 29. Adrian was happy and thrilled over the success during the grand opening.

Sharon B. Vereen, the daughter of Levan and Maude Vereen, graduated May 9 from Jarvis Christian College in Hawkins, Tex. where she majored in special education. Sharon was named Miss Sweetheart her freshman year at Jarvis. She received two Max C. Fleishmann Foundation Awards for the 1975-76 academic year. The Moody scholarship, selected Who's Who Among Students in American University and colleges. Sharon is active in many student activities and organizations. She is a member of A.K.A. Sorority. She is also prector of freshman Women's Dormitory. Sharon is a 1972 graduate of Glades Central High School and she performed her internship in special education at Longview, Tex.

Mommie ... They want me to come to church."

Yes, Mommie, they do want her in church, for in the church, they have a place for all ages. No child is too young to learn. This also provides you an opportunity to worship and give undivided attention to church services.

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
